Hey there, I'm Sophie

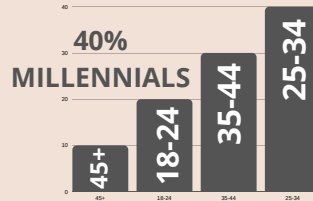

I'm a UK based, solo female travel blogger and the founder of Third Eye Traveller. I've been travelling around the world solo for the last five years and now I share my adventures through my blog and social media channels. I started Third Eye Traveller to share my personal experiences and create useful travel guides to help others feel confident on the road - even if it's on their own.

Over the last three years, I've built up an engaged audience of like minded travellers who are looking for wanderlust, amazing travel destinations, local experiences and off the beaten path adventures. Working in partnership with a blogger is an innovative and modern way to bring followers, customers or tourism to you! Take a look at my stats and the services I offer below.
